Research Methodology Workshop in Social and Historical Sciences

Backdrop:

In the higher education and research, there have been growing concerns among the academicians for enhancement in research quality through the adoption of research methodology by the social scientists and historians. It is particularly important in the light of the facts that social scientists have lost some of its appeal and attraction as a preferred career in Higher Education and research studies. It calls for adoption and application of rigorous research methodology in the higher education. This requires more familiarity and application through training in the computers and its application softwares for better enhancement in the quality of research at the higher levels. The application of quantitative techniques helps to get better research results and supports in analysis and interpretation. Besides, the use of effective writing skill principles assist in better presentation of the research results.

The innovative quality research production requires application of research methodology of which some of the basic elements are the critical literature review, identification of research questions and formulation of hypotheses, formulation of analytical framework, choice of research tools and methods and data analysis techniques. Beside this, data interpretation, their effective presentation skills, drawing inferences, and principles of writings remain weak links in the research endeavours among the social science students, researchers and even post-doctoral researchers as quoted by the number of agencies. All these are major concerns for the social scientists including historians as reflected in the recent guidelines for higher education put forth by the University Grants Commission (UGC) while undertaking research at the Master of Philosophy (M.Phil.) and Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) levels. Hence, there is an urgent need to learn the lessons from the past for the better development of higher education skills and research techniques for the research scholars.

Notably, the research training programme can significantly cater to the needs of the research scholars to learn the basics of the research and applications of new research techniques and methods to solve the real world problems. Because in the beginning, personally self-learning and keeping updated with the latest changing research tools are the challenging tasks for the social sciences and research students in the present information & technology based age. There are a number of statistical packages for social science students like SPSS which are rarely known by the common users and researchers in their research. These require some guidance and direction to learn pick-up and utilise these in the research work. It is generally observed that the academic institutions and universities do not lay adequate emphasis on research methodology training courses, as application of advanced quantitative and qualitative writing skills in social sciences; because of the constraints of the university structured syllabus. So, most of the research scholars face problems in application aspects of the research methodology while pursuing academic research career in higher education.

Objectives:

In the light of facts highlighted in National Education Policy (NEP)-2020 and mandate of the UGC, there is a need to enhance and sharpen the research skills and capabilities of the research scholars through conducting research methodology workshops. In view of this, the main objectives of the research methodology workshop are mentioned as follows:

- to familiarize the participants about the recent challenges in social and historical research;
- to introduce the participants about the need and relevance of review of literature, Formulation of Research Problem
- to introduce them with the sampling techniques and application of basic quantitative techniques in research;
- to introduce the participants about the qualitative research methods and literary thefts in research
- to explain the principles of writing skills in research for quality presentation

It is difficult to cover the whole range of the research techniques and even some essential topics in this short-term research methodology workshop. However, the said research methodology programme will certainly improve the quality of research outputs of the participants.

Thrust Areas:

The research methodology workshop mainly intends to focus on the issues and challenges in social and historical sciences, identification and conceptualization of research problem; review of literature; formulation of research objectives and hypotheses; preparation of field schedules and collection of data from primary and secondary sources; suitability of research methodology and techniques – sampling techniques, computer application for data processing and analysis; research design, report writings and finally sources of research funding. So, in this context, the outstanding and distinguished experts in research methodology will be invited to deliver the lectures on key topics in the different sessions of the training program. The sessions of the program have been tailored according to the needs of the participants. The research methodology training program will be highly useful for the research scholars in their higher education research work.

Course Duration, Participants, Registration Fee and Seats

The duration of the workshop is 7-days scheduled to be held w.e.f. 08th-14th November, 2021. The details of the tentative program schedule/content of the course are enclosed herewith. The senior research scholars enrolled for their Ph.D. research program in the faculties of Social sciences, history and humanities will be given preference to join the research methodology course. However, the course is also open for M.Phil students. There will be no registration fee for attending the research methodology workshop. The free boarding and lodging facilities will be provided for all the out-stationed participants. The application should reach to Dr. B.R. Thakur (9418065518), Associate Professor, Department of Geography, H.P. University Shimla on or before 25th October, 2021. There are 35 seats only. The selection will be based on 1st come 1st served basis. In case of large number of applications, criteria would be devised to shortlist the applicants. The selected candidates will be intimated through email latest by 31st October 2021.
