Research Methodology and Research Ethics in Social Science

Backdrop:

Research provides new domain of knowledge, new theories and laws, solution to a problem and open new areas of thought. Further, it has the potential to question and analyze the existing theories in accordance to the present circumstances. Hence, it is important for educational/professional academician and researchers to be acquainted with the process of research i.e. research methodology. Creation and dissemination of knowledge through research is one of the core functions of higher learning institutions. Apart from generating new knowledge, the higher learning institutions, particularly the Universities also have the responsibility of training the intellectual manpower required for all sectors of society. It is worth mentioning that research is a systematic process and the knowledge of research methodology helps to understand what to do in specific situation. Therefore, it is very much important for a researcher to know all the aspects and steps of research process in order to make it systematic to a great degree and hence, to stop the question to reliability and validity of his/her work. This workshop on Research Methodology and Research Ethics in Social Sciences shall make the young researcher/faculties familiar with the various aspects, tools and steps of conducting social science research. The participants will be introduced to various methods of doing research i.e quantitative, qualitative as well as mixed method approach. Special emphasis will be given to the concept of ethics in social science research.

Research Methodology is a way to systematically solve the research problem. A researcher must know the rationale for using specific methods of techniques and establish their relevance. Methodology may understand as science of studying how research is done scientifically. Each discipline within the social science is informed by its research paradigms and each paradigm is associated with specific methodologies. Methodology, thus, refers to the rationale and philosophical assumptions that underline may natural, social or human science study. Research involves answering unanswered questions or exploring something which does not exist. Social science research assumes significance from nature of problem being identified and possible solutions, as it has a larger impact on the day to day activities of common man. Over the years, it has been found that the qualities of research output has been far from the much-needed standards and have been found lagging behind by the standards of ethics. A research work must act as a catalyst for further researches to be under taken in the said field. In the recent past, many new dimensions of research have been emerged catering to the vast changes taking place in the present day social situation. The quality of research depends on the understanding of research problem, the attendant research methodology and appropriate tools used for the analysis. The need to impart expertise and skills in research is, thus imperative. Hence, it is felt that a one week workshop on research methodology and research ethics in social sciences be conducted for research scholars pursuing their doctoral studies in the social sciences as well as young faculties of various disciplines in social sciences.

The proposed workshop seeks to address these concerns with the M.Phil, Ph.D Scholars and young Faculty members in addressing the core questions of doing research, the process to conduct so systematically while taking care of research ethics at the same time.

Objectives:

In view of facts highlighted in National Education Policy (NEP)-2020 and mandate of the UGC, there is a need to enhance and sharpen the research skills and capabilities of the research scholars through conducting research methodology workshops. In view of this, the main objectives of the research methodology workshop are mentioned as follows:

- i. To familiarize the participants about the recent challenges in social and historical research;
- ii. To introduce the participants about the need and relevance of review of literature, formulation of research problem
- iii. To introduce them with the sampling techniques and application of basic quantitative techniques in research;
- iv. To introduce the participants about the qualitative research methods and literary thefts in research
- v. To explain the principles of writing skills in research for quality presentation

About Seminar & Themes

Justice which is the inmost call of the nature does not come with a single click or a blink to anybody. Lots of time, patience, energy, and many steps are involved in serving justice to an individual. Starting from the commission of the crime to police investigation, to court proceedings, and finally to judgments and convictions. There has been remarkable penetration of technology and techniques in the process of solving crime. In this entire process, forensic science is playing an important role. It has great significance in criminal matters. Forensic science has grown in its complexity and importance over the past several decades. This has led to greater demands being placed on law enforcement. In several cases, law enforcement has been questioned and criticized in the identifying, securing, and handling of critical forensic evidence. There is a clear need for law enforcement personnel to be more knowledgeable about forensic science criminal evidence.

Keeping these facts and issues in mind an attempt shall be made to bring the academicians, scholars, advocates, judges and researchers from different backgrounds at one platform to share various aspects of Forensic Science in criminal investigations. An effort shall also be made to make the people aware about the use of Forensic Science to get justice before the court of law. Participation from diverse groups of people and discussions will open new vistas which may be useful in making Administration of Justice more efficient.

The Seminar shall cover following sub themes:

- 1 Evidence Analysis and Processing
- 2 Digital Forensics
- 3 DNA and Biological Evidence
- 4 Admissibility of Forensic Evidence
- 5 Forensic Science Experts and Criminal Investigations
- 6 Administration of Justice and Forensic Science
- 7 Effectiveness of Forensic Science in Criminal Law
